Intensity Bands

To ensure the best experience for all participants, T3MA has developed a system to provide a clear visible indication of the level of intensity that our members wish to train at. By having a standardized method of measurement for intensity our members can help each other calibrate, our Professors and Coaches can help make better match ups, and new members feel more comfortable participating in the sport knowing there is awareness and process to reduce injury and ensure the best experience for all members.

A green T3MA wrist-band indicates a member wishes to train at a lower intensity. It is recommended that all new students wear a green wrist-band to help ensure they have a good first experience. The band is a reminder to the student and partners to “slow your roll”.
